Thank you for your time. I am new to Ham radio but have always known of the services provided that are provided by the Ham operators in emergencies and other events. As a new operator and as citizen I do not think you should sale airway bands to corporations. And take any more from Licensed Hams. I do not have any issues with charging up to $40 dollars for licenses to help cover costs as the costs have gone up due to inflation. I would like to see a lower rate for people on fixed income. But no cuts in bands or their use should take place. I feel the commercial or corporate use is already too high. Please not we are the People not them.

Thanks
